

Reiki Value

GRATITUDE AND RESPONSIBILITY

There must be a level of spiritual development and responsibility on the recipients part

Once his healing clinic was established, Dr Usui decided to visit the vast slums of Kyoto to share his gift and help heal the sick. He spent many years doing this work, helping men and women to become well and able to seek work.

After a few years he began to notice some familiar faces returning to him for healing. On questioning them he came to realise that although he cured them of their illnesses physically, there must be more to healing. He established the need for a level of spiritual development and responsibility on the recipients part.

REIKI HEALING MUST BE RECEIVED WITH A GRATEFUL HEART

Dr Usui realised that giving away Reiki freely developed no gratitude or responsibility on the recipients part. He determined never again to give Reiki to anyone who did not appreciate it. For that reason, there must be some form of exchange when providing Reiki treatments. This may be in the form of a small gift, or something as simple as a hug or a smile. Remember you can not charge for Reiki treatments until you are a qualified practitioner having completed Reiki level 2.
